

Kerry Bewcyk: No more games. We want an equitable agreement

February 19, 2010

I am appalled by the way our employer is treating health care providers. It's a total lack of respect.

What happened to the family friendly workplace? There is none.

SAHO and our Saskatchewan government reached a healthy settlement with the Saskatchewan Union of Nurses. What happened to a fair settlement with the rest of the health care providers? What happened to being fair? What happened to parity? Wake up and be a fair employer!

What's good for one union is and should be good for the rest of the health care providers!

No more staff shortages. No more of your games. We have families too. We want respect and a fair and equitable settlement.

Orderly
