

Marilyn Willoughby: Offer is a bad joke:

February 24, 2010

SAHO and the government's final offer to health care providers is a joke. It's a lot like the gift of a zipper-pull that was given to all the so-called valued employees of our health region before contract negotiations started.

If SAHO and the government think that 25,000 members are going to zip-it, the joke is on them.

The little internal joke behind this gift is childish. Shame on SAHO and the government. Your tactics are appalling.

I still have this little gift and a picture of it will be publicized. I won't zip-it. I will use my freedom of speech, in any way, shape and form, to inform the public of your tactics.
